Census Innovation Measurement Initiative

A team of campus researchers submitted to be part of the Census Innovation Measurement Initiative (IMI) tester team. This project is connected with a new effort at Census and NSF to build better data for research on the "science of science policy". The lead institution for the project is the new Institute for Research on Innovation & Science (http://iris.isr.umich.edu) at the University of Michigan. If you want to learn more, please contact Brent Hueth (hueth@wisc.edu).